

Bankruptcy Atlas Technologies B.V. approved

Helmond, January 26, 2023- As announced on January 23rd we had to submit the request for the opening of suspension of payment proceedings with respect to Atlas Technologies B.V., our operating company responsible for the production of Lightyear.

This suspension was granted by Rechtbank Oost-Brabant located 's-Hertogenbosch in the Netherlands. Today this court declared Atlas Technologies B.V. bankrupt. The court appointed Mr. R. van Oeijen from Holla legal & tax as trustee.

Lightyear regrets having to make this announcement for all employees, customers, investors and suppliers and will work closely with the curator and all the people who are involved and hope for their understanding and support. In the coming period the curator will focus on the position of the employees and creditors as well as assessing how the Lightyear concept can be continued.

About Lightyear

Lightyear was founded in 2016 and has the mission to bring clean mobility to everyone, everywhere. Through its energy-efficient design and integrated solar cells, Lightyear aims to eliminate the two biggest concerns for electric cars - high charging frequency and limited range. This allows motorists to drive up to eleven thousand kilometers per year with the power of the sun, depending on the climate. For more information visit our website.
